

Carolinas Medical Center Seeks Chair Emergency Medicine

Carolinas Medical Center (CMC), an 874-bed hospital located in Charlotte, North Carolina, and the flagship facility for Carolinas HealthCare System (CHS), a leading integrated healthcare system serving North and South Carolina, announces the recruitment for a Chair of the Department of Emergency Medicine. CMC is one of North Carolinas' five Academic Medical Center Teaching hospitals providing graduate medical education for more than 250 physicians in 18 specialties and was recently designated as the Charlotte campus of the University of North Carolinas at Chapel Hill School of Medicine.

The Emergency Department at CMC, noted for service excellence under the J.D. Power and Associates Distinguished Hospital Programs for "An Outstanding Emergency Department Experience," has over 35 full-time faculty, 14 residents per class in a PGY 1-3 format and fellows in five different fellowships. CMC's Emergency Department is one of the busiest in the nation with more than 115,000 ED annual visits to their Level 1 Trauma Center; over 30,000 of those visits are pediatric patients. The department also provides leadership for the county's EMS system and the hospital's helicopter and fixed wing transport system.

The Chair will be responsible for providing the overall administrative, clinical and educational leadership to the Emergency Department supporting CHS's academic mission, strategies and goals. The Chair will foster active departmental research activities and ensure a cohesive, high performing, financially viable department that exemplifies evidence-based medicine standards and protocols.

Candidates must be a respected clinician, teacher and researcher; a track record of extramural funded research is highly desirable. Strong leadership, communication, interpersonal skills and a demonstrated track record of leading a busy, highly productive emergency department is required.
